

This is a detailed architectural floor plan of a large hall, likely a lecture hall or auditorium. The plan shows a rectangular room with a stage area at the top. The seating is arranged in several rows of rectangular tables, each with four chairs. The stage area is marked with a red line and contains various technical markings, including a blue triangle and a red circle. The walls are marked with a purple line, and the floor is marked with a grid of green dots. The plan also shows a central aisle and side aisles, as well as a large blue rectangular area on the right side, possibly a stage or a large table. The overall layout is symmetrical, with the stage at the top and the seating area below it.
